(1) Effective duration is the approximate percentage change in price for a 100 basis point change in rates. An effective duration of 4.975 indicates that an interest rate increase of 1.0% would be expected to cause a 4.975% decrease in the value of the MBS in the Company's investment portfolio at June 30, 2018. An effective duration of 3.832 indicates that an interest rate increase of 1.0% would be expected to cause a 3.832% decrease in the value of the MBS in the Company's investment portfolio at December 31, 2017. These figures include the structured securities in the portfolio but not the effect of the Company's funding cost hedges. Effective duration quotes for individual investments are obtained from The Yield Book, Inc.

Financing and Liquidity

As of June 30, 2018, the Company had outstanding repurchase obligations of approximately $175.4 million with a net weighted average borrowing rate of 2.13%. These agreements were collateralized by MBS with a fair value, including accrued interest, of approximately $185.1 million, and cash pledged to counterparties of approximately $1.2. At June 30, 2018, the Company's liquidity was approximately $6.7 million, consisting of unpledged MBS and cash and cash equivalents.

We may pledge more of our structured MBS as part of a repurchase agreement funding, but retain cash in lieu of acquiring additional assets. In this way, we can, at a modest cost, retain higher levels of cash on hand and decrease the likelihood we will have to sell assets in a distressed market in order to raise cash. Below is a list of outstanding borrowings under repurchase obligations at June 30, 2018.

Hedging

In connection with its interest rate risk management strategy, the Company economically hedges a portion of the cost of its repurchase agreement funding and also its junior subordinated notes by entering into derivative financial instrument contracts. The Company has not elected hedging treatment under U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") in order to align the accounting treatment of its derivative instruments with the treatment of its portfolio assets under the fair value option election. As such, all gains or losses on these instruments are reflected in earnings for all periods presented. As of June 30, 2018, such instruments were comprised entirely of Eurodollar futures contracts.

The tables below present information related to outstanding Eurodollar futures contracts at June 30, 2018.

Stock Repurchase Plan

On March 26, 2018, the Board of Directors of Bimini Capital Management, Inc. (the "Company") approved a Stock Repurchase Plan ("Repurchase Plan"). Pursuant to Repurchase Plan, the Company may purchase up to 500,000 shares of its Class A Common Stock from time to time, subject to certain limitations imposed by Rule 10b-18 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Share repurchases may be executed through various means, including, without limitation, open market transactions. The Repurchase Plan does not obligate the Company to purchase any shares, and it expires on November 15, 2018. The authorization for the Share Repurchase Plan may be terminated, increased or decreased by the Company's Board of Directors in its discretion at any time.

Through June 30, 2018, the Company repurchased a total of 31,272 shares at an aggregate cost of approximately $73,000, including commissions and fees, for a weighted average price of $2.35 per share. Subsequent to that date, and through August 2, 2018, the Company has repurchased 8,089 shares for a net cost of approximately $20,000 and a weighted average price of $2.50 per share.

Management Commentary

Commenting on the first quarter, Robert E. Cauley, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, said, "The U.S. economy appears to be very strong. Growth in the second quarter of 2018 exceeded 4% on an annualized basis and, given the extent of fiscal stimulus introduced by the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017 and the Bipartisan Budget Act of 2018, is likely to remain strong for the next few quarters. The Fed expects to continue to remove accommodation by raising the target range for the Federal Funds rate two more times in 2018 and three more times in 2019. By any measure, economic activity is robust and the employment market in particular appears to be overheating. Importantly, while inflation has returned to, or near, the Fed target level of 2%, it does not appear to be at risk of meaningfully exceeding this level in the near term. This should keep the Fed from raising rates beyond their current gradual pace.

"One threat to the economy the market fears is a meaningful trade war. The Trump administration appears determined to reverse what the President sees as years of unfair trade that has weakened the United States. The administration has aggressively introduced tariffs in an apparent attempt to force our various trading counter-parties to agree to more even trade terms. It remains to be seen if the administration's tactics will work and market fears of a protracted trade war will likely remain until a resolution is found or the trade war escalates meaningfully. Developments with our trading partners will also impact the flattening of the yield curve that has taken place over the last few quarters. Fear of a trade war and the anticipated negative impact it would have on economic activity has kept longer term rates from rising meaningfully and, coupled with consistent rate increase by the Federal Reserve, driven the spread between long and short rates lower. This appears likely to continue.

"The Agency MBS market has generated a modest positive return of 0.24% for the second quarter and (1.0%) for 2018 to date. The reduction in asset purchases by the Fed has been offset by reduced supply of Agency MBS, negating the adverse effect of the former on the performance of the asset class. A continued slowing of prepayment behavior has benefited higher coupon mortgages as well, further negating the effect of reduced purchases by the Fed. Going forward, the continued compression of the yield curve could put downward pressure on both returns for Agency MBS as well as demand for the asset class.

"The performance of the Royal Palm portfolio trailed the Agency MBS market as the portfolio has a higher concentration of high coupon, fixed rate specified pools, which under performed as extension risk was paramount and prepayment fears abated. This drove the mark to market losses on our thirty-year 4.0% and 4.5% securities, which comprised nearly 79% of the pass-through portfolio at March 31, 2018. The portfolio was also negatively impacted by elevated speeds, generally owing to the preponderance of smaller pools that are prone to inconsistent prepayment behavior. We anticipate as we invest cash generated by our advisory services in the portfolio we will restructure the portfolio slightly at the same time, reducing the exposure to 30-year securities. We anticipate this process will be carried out during the current quarter and into the fourth quarter of 2018.

"Orchid Island did not raise additional capital during the quarter. Nonetheless the advisory services segment generated approximately $2.0 million in revenue."
